So this is winter again. Oh well, what's the odds, no sign of a hockey team, horse shoe competitions are over, checker tournaments are on the wane—nothing left but the sewing bee. What a hope.

In connection with the wheat slump last week, did you notice all the "I told you so" guys? These birds with what they know should be millionaires, and we don't mean maybe.

Hallowe'en will soon be here and the kids will be out in full force. Don't you wish you were a kid again.

Uncle has disappeared from his usual haunts. Guess he must be snow-bound or busy counting our money.

Major H. G. Strange of Fenn, has entered samples of Hard Red Spring Wheat, six rowed barley, and oats for the Grain and Hay Show to be at Chicago on November 30 to December 7. In 1923, Major Strange won the championship over all on his wheat entry, and has won other important awards on oats, spring wheat and barley since then.

Low weight per bushel, lower flour yields, higher protein content, lower water absorption of the flour and excellent baking quality are features of a preliminary report on the milling and baking characteristics of Western Canada's 1929 wheat crop, issued by Dr. F. J. Birchard, chief chemist to the Board of Grain Commissioners for Canada, and his assistant T. R. Aiken.

R.C. Snelgrove SPEAKS AT ODDFELLOWS' HALL

In addressing a public meeting at the I. O. O. F. hall Friday evening, C. H. Snelgrove stated that although he had been an organizer for the Ku Klux Klan in Saskatchewan for two years, he was now in no way connected with this organization. He did not think that anyone should attack any order without knowing the truth. He knows no Alberta organizer for the Klan but knows that they do not break the law and do not dress in white garments, he declared.

In opening his remarks, Mr. Snelgrove swore undying allegiance to the British Empire and its sovereign, the King. He was born in Canada of British parents. He will always aid any officer in the enforcement of the law and has great respect for it. He is not connected with the Klan but is simply a free lance advance agent of the Protestant cause and appears under auspices of the Loyal Orange Lodge. He is given assistance by them.

The speaker did not think that people should shrink from the sight of the Red Cross. It is the emblem of light in dark places and is chosen by nine lodges in Canada as their emblem.

Mr. Snelgrove told of being imprisoned in Regina jail on the charge of carrying a concealed weapon, even though he had a permit to do so and showed it to the officer arresting him. He spent 30 days in jail and paid a fine of $50.

Mr. Snelgrove addressed a good sized audience in the theatre last night. We hope to give a report of the meeting next week.

HALLOWE'EN PRANKS

Hallowe'en pranks date back to the early days of Rome, and as is often the case with modern revels, were based on some religious festivals.

It was Agrippa who first conceived the building of the Pantheon, an exquisite edifice dedicated to the "unknown gods" a thrifty move which he made in case he had neglected to give special mention in some of the other temples, to certain vindictive god. As a tribute to the unknown gods, many Christians were there to put to death.

Later came Caesar who, with his subjects, became Christians. He rededicated the Pantheon and it became "All Saints Temple."

The first day of November was set aside as a day of prayers for all Christians slaughtered within its gates. But those were the days superstitions. Pixies and dwarfs abounded. Fairies danced at midnight. The souls of murdered men haunted the scene of the crime. Ghosts were likely to return for vengeance. All Saints Day was a day of torture for the superstitious populace. And the night before October 31 was given over to tales of torment and ghosts and the re-appearance of the dead.

But even in those times there were hard-boiled mischief makers who trod airily on all supernatural beliefs. These got their fun on October 31 out dressing as ghosts or devils, with ches or pixies, appearing in strange places, making outrageous sounds, and passing down to posterity the tales of all Hallowe'en, as a night of terror when witches roam.

Directors of the Alberta Wheat Pool will be at Vancouver this week to attend the opening of the two million bushel addition to Pool terminals No. 1. This gives the "Pool elevator capacity at 6,150,000 bushels.

Entry was effected through the skylight which was reached by means of a ladder found in the backyard adjoining the premises.

Provincial police are making investigations.

WHEAT: WHAT-IS IT?

Frank Kiever handed us this gem from an exchange; he says it is about correct, and he ought to know:

"Wheat is a seed that is planted and grown to keep the producer broke and the buyer crazy."

"Its quality varies according to the amount of rain or frost experienced during the growing season. A man who can guess nearest to this quality is called 'wheat grader' by the public and 'fool' by the farmer."

"The price of wheat is determined at primary markets and goes up when you have sold and down when you have bought."

"A buyer, working for a group of millers, was sent to Winnipeg to watch the wheat market. After a few days' deliberation he wired his interests to this effect: 'Some think it will come down and some think it will go up. I do too. Whatever you do will be wrong. Act at once.'"

"Wheat is planted in the spring, mortgaged in the summer, and lost in the fall."

"You can and you can't; you will and won't; be damned if you do and damned if you don't."

REST ROOM NEWS

DEFINE CANADIANS

Steps will be taken by the federal government at the earliest opportunity, either by means of legislation or through the next census, to establish clearly a distinction between British subjects born in Canada and those who have come from other parts of the British Empire or from foreign countries stated Hon. Fernand Rinfret, recently. The secretary of state declared that the government will endeavor to create a Canadian nationality, taking into account that citizens of this country are part of the British Empire and that as such wherever they go in foreign countries they can be considered only as British subjects.

"The question is a complex one," said Mr. Rinfret, "which has engaged the attention of our predecessors for many years. Though we are an autonomous nation, we are nevertheless a part of the British Empire and not an independent nation. Therefore, as long as we retain the British bond, as long as foreign countries will accept us only as British subjects, we cannot be given Canadian passports and have a full status as Canadian subjects."

The most that can be done, is to make a distinction between the Canadian born British subjects and those who have come from other parts of the British Empire, or who have come from foreign countries and have been naturalized British subjects here. The question is now in the hands of the statistical department of the ministry of commerce, which will report in the near future."

WHY PAY AT ALL

The police magistrates in convention in Barrie went on record against the fee system. This leads the Renfrew Mercury, which agrees with the magistrates, to say: "In Renfrew the police magistrate has for several years been in receipt of an annual stipend, but here there are fees to pay by delinquents, which fees are handed over to the town treasurer, neither magistrate nor policeman benefitting from them. But why any fees at all? Why should there be a fee when a salaried magistrate writes out a summons, and why a fee when a salaried policeman serves the document? These fees but add to what delinquents are obliged to pay and most of them pay enough thereby. The fee system is a relic of bygone days."

A survey of the government game sanctuary east of Great Slave Lake, shows about 250 muskox in the sanctuary. Caribou are plentiful, a herd having been seen on southern migration. White fox, smaller game animals and birds also abound. There are 15,000 miles in the preserve.

WORLD PEACE PACT

Canada's National Honor Involved in Crusade for Peace

Premier Ramsay MacDonald last Thursday evening, through the magic of radio, spoke to an invisible audience of hundreds of thousands of Canadians, carrying his message of a crusade for peace.

"Being in the neighborhood of Canada," he explained, "I could not resist dropping in on a family visit."

Coupling the words "peace" and "national honor," Mr. MacDonald emphasized that Canada by her signature to the peace pact has declared that war has been banished from her national policy. This signature, is every Canadian's signature, and all the British Empire is prepared to perform sacrifices to ensure unsullied national honor in the crusade for peace.

"The great problem at present is the problem of transition. We must go through the period between military security and the security of peace. The faint ones of the nations may falter, but we must lead them gently across differences, and the crossing must be made as confident as possible, until we come to where real peace and security may be enjoyed."

After stating that every power which had been invited to attend the London peace conference in January, had consented, Mr. MacDonald spoke of his U. S. mission—a mission to establish good will and common confidence.

"We have lifted the windows of diplomatic offices. We have drawn up the blinds, and opened the screens. There is to be no more secrecy in diplomatic negotiations."

Referring to the coming conferences in London, and to peace missions to other nations, the Premier said that all parts of the Empire and all other nations would be kept informed as to the progress of negotiations. Great Britain wanted the world to know the truth, because in this case, in knowledge lies security.

SHEEP AND WHEAT

Sheep and wheat are a combination that seems to work out pretty well in the so-called dry belt where a man has enough water for the sheep. Summer fallows are utilized for pasture and instead of lying idle and requiring frequent cultivations the sheep live on the weeds, pack the soil, help start other weeds and save a lot of work. John A. Stranach of Meeting Creek, Alta., tenant, and W. V. Newson, Edmonton, landlord, sold $1,400 worth of lambs last year and divided the money equally between them. These lambs were grown on 150 acres of summerfallow land incidentally they saved several diskings and the crop this year on this type of fallow was better than most of the neighbors crops on summerfallows that required several cultivations the previous year in order to keep down weed growth.

A CALGARY WRITER

The next most interesting thing to writing a book oneself, is to know someone who has, so that one may sit back and wonder how she did it.

This will be the state of mind of local friends of Floss Jewel Williams, Calgary, who has just published her third novel "Broken Gods." This is said to be a psychological study of the up-to-date social life of a community. Mrs. Williams' own humorous slant on life is said to permeate the writing, and it is considered to be a clever and entertaining portrayal of character.

Her other books are "Judgment of Solomon" and "Deep Furrows," both of which had very good sale.

"Broken Gods," has been published by Graphic Publishers, Ottawa, and will appear shortly on Western book stands. Mrs. Williams is at present in Vancouver when it is expected she will spend the winter.

HUDSON BAY ROUTE

The Hudson Bay Company appears to be a steady customer of the Hudson Bay route. This company shipped the first lot of Canadian wheat to go to England by the northern route and it has also imported three bales of blankets to be brought into Winnipeg the same way. There will be many similar shipment, and the imports from European countries for the Middle West States will, it is said arrive by way of the Hudson Bay route.

TWO SCOTS MEET

A lady, the wife of a local oil driller, entered one of our garages today to pay a bill of $58. She presented her cheque to one of the staff, a true Scot. His face flushed with joy at sight of the $58.00, but paled when he discovered the two cent stamp was missing. A fierce mental struggle ensued, but the best traditions of old Scotia triumphed: "Ye'll be owin' me two cents as weel, madam." The lady herself touched with the heather, demurred, but she was no match for stern Scotch justice. She says she has been 'round a bit and heard a few unkind rumors anent the Scottish race, and at last she believes there may be a glimmer of truth in all the stories.

Take a hollow rubber ball, cut it in two with the scissors, make a hole in the middle of whichever half you wish to use, just large enough for your paint brush handle to go thru, then pull the half ball up tightly on the handle of the paint brush, cup fashion. This will keep the paint from running down the handle of the paint brush and getting onto your hands when painting ceilings.

A STURDY FATHER

Mr. Hugh Savage, by carrying the need for a distinctive Canadian flag into the arena of the magazine columns, has roused interest from coast to coast. His article published in Maclean's magazine, has resulted in a deluge of comment solicited or spontaneous, which appears in the latest issue of that journal.

To those locally who heard Mr. Savage speak on this subject at a recent Board of Trade meeting, and to all others also, his outspoken stand has been of greatest interest, and we follow with eagerness the reception accorded his arguments, through the country.

The great majority of the writers, statesmen, politicians, educational leaders and others, apparently are in hearty approval. There are a very few dissenting voices—mostly it would appear from the military, scintillating, eloquent of battles and the brave, though far off days of Wolfe and Brock.

Undoubtedly the flag under which a man fought in the frenzy of war, means much to him. But Canada's history is not entirely war history. Her peace time development must be considered. We have had national leaders who have fought in times of peace, quite as stoutly for the honor of Canada, for her progress industrially and agriculturally, for her success as a nation. Indeed, all who have tilled the soil of Canada, who have hewn her forests, explored her waste spaces, turned factory wheels, have been fighting for her prestige in the eyes of the world.

The British constitution on which our laws are based, the tradition of Britain, will always give the Union Jack its place of honor, distinctive and commanding.

But in addition, we love Canada for herself, we love her soil, those achievements which are hers alone, her development to which we all contribute. Is it a source of wonder that we should wish for some insignia, eloquent of our own Canada.

It would appear that the forceful article from the pen of Mr. Savage, has served to make this general sentiment articulate. Although Mr. Savage may not have been the original father of the movement, yet unquestionably it is his child by adoption and with his name it will be for all time associated.

BIRD LOVER SPEAKS

Jack Miner in his ability to thrill and sway his audiences, proves himself a master of men as well as of birds. Lacking any pretensions to trained oratory, few can equal him in his definite appeal to all class of hearers.

The Ontario bricklayer has become an international character, largely created by his overwhelming desire to migratory birds. His own sanctuaries at Kingsville, Ontario, are used as models by conservationists the world over.

In his Calgary talk on bird life, his collection of pictures of bird scenes made graphic many of his beliefs.

"Are birds wild?" was one of the questions asked the naturalist. "It is not birds that are wild, but human beings. Song birds and waterfowl are afraid of humans, but once they are confident of the kindness of men, they lose fear. Birds which will fly away for safety have the intelligence to fly back across a continent for protection and food. Robins may be tamed round any home and will return year after year recognizing friends."

For proofs that birds return, Jack Miner tagged ducks in 1912 and next year all returned. One bird came back every year for six years, while others returned until they met the hunter's rifle. Similarly with geese.

In his tagging experiments with geese for the first seven years, the sanctuary drew birds from only a small area in Ontario, but latterly the news has spread and they have come for protection from all over America.

The growing of trees over the prairie is the greatest encouragement to bird life, drawing yearly a greater number and greater variety of birds.

A great many people who have slipped rather badly religiously of late years, nevertheless, were quite startled last Sunday to find a canvasser from some International Bible organization, speeding briskly from house to house selling his wares. All the teachings of their youth regarding buying and selling on the Sabbath, were revived and they coldly bade the canvasser begone. One less sin on their conscience. They didn't buy.

It is no exaggeration to say that Division No. 1 of Stockland Municipal District is the wealthiest rural division in Canada. In years gone by it was noted for the production of excellent cattle and horses. Today the scene is changed. Where cattle grazed contentedly not five years ago, we find innumerable derricks where active drilling is going on seeking the lurking place of crude oil and naphtha. The Home and Associated oil wells are today producing sufficient naphtha to make millionaires out of those who had faith. Other wells are nearing the lime and are 1929 waxes and wanes. Mr. McKinnon expects to see big wells in the south end of Turner Valley come in. Division No. 1 is fortunate in having Mr. McKinnon as representative.

FALL PLOUGHING

Experimental Farms Note by DeLong of Lacombe Farm Station

The result of several years' experiments conducted at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, indicates that in years with the usual amount of precipitation, fall ploughing will give as high or higher yields of wheat or oats per acre than spring ploughing. In years with more than the average rainfall, fall ploughing usually gives better returns than fall ploughing in dry seasons, following a very dry autumn.

When the advantages of having the land ready for the drill in the spring are taken into consideration along with the possibility of as high or higher yields per acre, it would seem that farmers living in districts similar to Central Alberta would be well advised to do as much fall ploughing as possible.

Sod has been broken at different times during the season. Then general practice is to break the sod early in June and work as a fallow through out the balance of the season. Experimental data indicates that, when everything is considered, the most economical returns are produced when sod is ploughed immediately after the hay crop is harvested and the land kept well cultivated during the remainder of the season.

The practice of pasturing sod until late in the fall and then ploughing about the first of October has never given very satisfactory results except in the case of brome grass. The fall growth of grass appears to exhaust the moisture supply, thus limiting the yield of the succeeding grain crop. Ploughing brome grass sod in October appears to be justified in spite of the fact that there is the possibility of light yields, as shallow ploughing brome grass sod late in the fall and giving it a thorough disking before freeze-up, appears to be one of the most effective methods of bringing such land under cultivation.

WHAT IS YOUR SHADE?

Now that the Privy Council has definitely acknowledged that women are human beings—a biological condition long suspected by many—the troubles of feminine aspirants to the Senate are merely dawning. The point is just what should one wear, that will harmonize with the rich defiant red carpet of the Senate chamber. It is a shade which will be difficult to match or offset. Undoubtedly brunettes will prove more ornamental than blondes in such a setting. And if the gentlemen of the Senate actually prefer blondes something will have to be done about the carpet. One thing certain is that unless the prevailing color scheme is changed, the Senators will be spared the presence of any red-haired ladies. They would not look their best.

The Ottawa Journal says: "Growth of revenue from the income tax is the very best evidence of prosperity. In the months of April to August, 1928, it was $51,000,000, while for the same period this year it was $60,392,000. This is probably partly due to more efficient methods of collection, but it is also largely due to there being money in the country."

PERILS OF BICYCLES

The fatality occurring in Calgary this week when a bicycle rider was run over and killed by a car driven by Alderman Parkyn, brings both to bicycle riders and motor drivers a realization of the dangers of collision on the highways. In case of collision the rider hasn't a chance. And as a mere matter of self-interest, those on bicycles should exercise special precautions. They should keep to their own side of the road, and keep the front wheel steady. Of all classes of travellers, the bicycle rider seems the most carefree. He has a passion for scenery, and as he approaches a car, his front wheel has a tendency to weave vaguely toward the path of the car, just righting itself usually in the nick of time.

School children riding bicycles, carrying a load of books and steering with one hand cause many a heart to stop. They amble along, now fast, now slow, now one side, now the other enjoying life. But they do have narrow escapes.

Bicyclists undoubtedly have a hard lot. They must not use the sidewalks, and they are badly handicapped on the streets. But they would save motor drivers and themselves many a blood chilling moment if they would pay greater heed to the traffic regulations and would keep that front wheel from wobbling.

The financial upheaval broke on October 24, leaving the exchanges of New York, Chicago, Montreal Toronto and Winnipeg tottering.

LIVESTOCK SHOW

H. R. H. the Prince of Wales will be one of the exhibitors at the Calgary Fall Livestock Show and sales to be held November 4 to 6 at the Exhibition grounds. Announcement was made recently by E. L. Richardson, secretary, that the Prince of Wales would send two thoroughbred Hampshire rams to the show and these would afterward be offered for sale to the highest bidder.

The University of Alberta will also have three Hampshire rams at the show and the Canadian Pacific Railway ranch at Tilley will be represented by 40 head of some of the finest Suffolk and Hampshire rams in the province. Many other prominent breeders of beef and dairy cattle, sheep and swine have sent entries for the show.

A total of 687 entries have been received, which include 42 head of swine, 23 head of cattle and 622 head of sheep.

An interesting feature of the show will be the feeding competitions for boys and girls. Prizes will be awarded for lambs and pig feeding and also for lamb trimming.

GREAT STOCK PANIC

While the hubber of us were worrying quietly about bread and butter and paying the gas bill, the City Stock Exchanges were tottering this week under almost unprecedented stock upheavals.

Not since the war panic of 1914 has Wall Street seen such trying days, and never in financial history have security markets been thrown into such tumult.

In Montreal, the precipitous decline swept away millions of dollars in stock values. Drops of ten points were scattered over the list.

In Toronto similar losses on paper were recorded. And though it creates a panic, yet it is supposed that most brokerage houses survived the break though many were forced to the limit to hang on.

In Winnipeg the abrupt drop of 15 cents in wheat, wiped out hundreds of accounts from grain dealers' books. Then suddenly, as suddenly as it dropped, wheat struggled back to almost normal, and for some, the sun shone again.

Ontario calls itself the banner province; Quebec claims the title as the premier province. But there are seven modest sisters among the nine.

VULCAN

A chapter in Alberta's life has been outlined by Cunningham Craig, English geologist.

"At one time a sea, underlaid with limestone, existed in this part of the continent. Large rivers flowed into this sea and deltas were formed. Great forests grew on the deltas and during centuries, many fluctuations of level occurred, but finally the sea became almost entirely filled. The earth's crust crumpled like a concertina, with tremendous foldings like the Rockies resulting. Great forces of earth movement caused large deposits of vegetable matter and the resulting formation of coal or petroleum. Where there was no chance of gas escape from vegetable matter under high pressure, petroleum was formed. Enormous masses of petroleum were formed, and when there was not enough porous rock to contain the petroleum, had to migrate.

Under earth and gas pressure it has migrated in every direction, discarding as it went the heavier molecules. This discarding is called filtration, and the farther the oil goes, the lighter it becomes, and when it could go no further, wet gas continued, and then dry gas.

"Alberta fields show the greatest instance of migration and filtration. The porous structure beneath the limestone is filled with a light liquid which on release flashes into gas. Farther down may be found light crude oil and that is what is being sought."

"Mother Earth has one garment on ly and the lakes, rivers and oceans, are the holes in the garment. The rheumatism of age is shown in her chalky deposits, and her glands are filled with lubricants for which mankind is searching."
